Weekly Names 10 as CIA Agents In W. Germany

BONN (UPI) — The weekly news magazine Information Service today published the names of 10 more Americans it said are agents of the Central Intelligence Agency in West Germany.

The magazine, which describes itself as Socialist, published the names of 10 other alleged American CIA agents last week.

Five of the 10 names published today are those of women. The magazine said they are described as secretaries by the U.S. Embassy in Bonn "but they are not merely secretaries because the CIA does not employ women just as secretaries."

An American spokesman last week called the publication of the names irresponsible. Along with the names, the magazine published the addresses in Bonn and phone numbers.
